

Terrell Frazier

Department of Sociology, Columbia University
606 West 122nd Street, Room 704
New York, NY 10027
terrellfrazier@columbia.edu

EDUCATION

- Ph.D. Columbia University, (September 2015 – Present), Sociology, Expected Graduation: June 2021
- M.A. Columbia University, 2015, African-American Studies
Thesis: Insurgency at the Intersection: Oppression and Resistance Among African-American LGBT Organizers. (Advisor: Alondra Nelson).
- M.A. The New School for Social Research, 2009, Sociology
- B.A. Michigan State University, Honors College, 2006, Social Relations, Journalism

RESEARCH INTERESTS

Political Sociology; Social Networks; Social Movements; Gender and Sexuality; Race and Ethnicity

PAPERS, PRESENTATIONS, AND INVITED TALKS

- 2018 Columbia University-Race, Ethnicity, and Migration Workshop, Innovation at the Intersection: A Framework for Understanding Intersectional Resistance, New York, NY
- 2017 Columbia University-Oral History Master of Arts Workshop, The Intersection of Oral History and Sociology: Using the Life History Method to Better Understand Social Movements, New York, NY
- 2016 American Sociological Association Annual Meeting (Upcoming), Innovation at the Intersection: A Network Approach for Locating Oppression, Seattle, WA
- 2015 Institute for Research in African-American Studies, Conversation Series, Columbia University, New York, NY
Insurgency at the Intersection: Oppression and Resistance Among African-American LGBT Organizers.
- 2015 Center for Oral History, Summer Institute, Columbia University, New York, NY
Community Oral History and Fundamental Interventions (co-presenter: Dr. Adam Reich)

RESEARCH IN PROGRESS

Frazier, Terrell and Adam Reich, “Fundamental Interventions: Social Change, Social Medicine & Population Health”

This research examines health and disease at the intersections of identity, social position and processes of advantage and disadvantage, to illuminate both the etiology of health disparities in marginalized communities and the relationship between the social patterning of disease and the patterning of related social movements.

TEACHING EXPERIENCE

- 2017 Guest Instructor Social Movements and Youth Culture, Social Science Summer at INCITE
- 2015 Teaching Assistant The Sociology of Social Action and Social Change, Adam Reich
Columbia University

PROFESSIONAL ACTIVITIES

- Member, American Sociological Association, Association of Black Sociologists, Eastern Sociological Association, Oral History Association, 2017-2018
- Member, Gender and Sexuality Working Group, Department of Sociology, Columbia University, 2017-2018
- Member, Race, Ethnicity and Migration Working Group, Department of Sociology, Columbia University, 2017-2018
- Programming Committee Member, 2016 Oral History Association Annual Meeting, 2015-2016
- Member, Fundamental Interventions: Social Change, Social Medicine & Population Health Working Group, Robert Wood Johnson Foundation's Health and Society Scholars Program at Columbia University, 2013-2015

RELATED PROFESSIONAL SKILLS

STATA, R, NVivo 10, Atlas.ti, ARCGis, Dedoose

AWARDS AND FELLOWSHIPS

- 2016 – 2020 Health Policy Research Scholar, Robert Wood Johnson Foundation
- 2015 – 2020 Paul F. Lazarsfeld Ph.D. Fellowship, Columbia University
- 2015 – 2016 INCITE Graduate Fellowship, Columbia University
- 2015 Zora Neale Hurston Thesis Award for Distinction in the Social Sciences, Columbia University
- 2007 - 2008 University Scholar Award, The New School for Social Research

PRIOR WORK EXPERIENCE

- Research Assistant, Interdisciplinary Center for Innovative Theory and Empirics (INCITE) & Columbia Robert Wood Johnson Health & Society Scholars Program, Columbia University, 2013 - 2015
- Director of Education and Outreach, Columbia University Center for Oral History, 2011 - 2013
- Researcher/Writer, Freedom to Marry, 2010 - 2011